1. On July 30, 2019, the Plaintiff was visiting the Lowes in Pounding Mill, Virginia, as a customer/patron. She was looking at weed killer, and while shopping, an employee of Defendant had put a lift machine beside her. Her foot was caught underneath one of the forks and when Plaintiff turned to walk away it caught her foot on the fork, pulling her down toward the machine causing physical injuries.
2. At the time and the place of the incident, it was the duty of the Defendant to maintain walkways within the store in a safe condition for the patrons, guarding against those risks and circumstances reasonably known and expected to exist.
3. Notwithstanding said duties, Defendant was negligent in that it:
 - a. Failed to ensure patron walkways were free and clear so as not to constitute trip, slip or fall hazards; and
 - b. Failed to bring attention through signage or other manner to those portions of the patron walkways which were encumbered or damaged, such as to constitute a slip, trip or fall hazard.
